SALARIES STATED.

HOW THE POSTMASTERS OF THE COUNTRY ARE TO BE PAID.

The New Schedule and its Effect on the Wage-Lies-The Dead Postmaster-General-Male and Female Clerks-Great Britain's Views as to the Irish in America-Other News.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Postmasters throughout the country are manifesting some uneasiness about the results of the readjustment of their salaries on the basis of 2 cent postage. In order that their income might not be cut down in proportion to the reduction of postage, congress last winter enacted a new schedule of postmasters' salaries. The old and new schedule cannot be exactly compared, because there are differences in the gradation of offices in each class, and because the present schedule includes box rents, a variable element, and limits the compensation from box rents to one sum if the postmaster furnishes the boxes and to another if he does not. But making the comparison as closely as possible between maximum compensation under the present schedule and the fixed compensation under the new schedule, it appears that the latter makes some advance in the salaries. For example, among the first-class offices where the gross revenues are $40,000, the present maximum compensation is $2,940, and after the new schedule goes into effect the fixed salary will be $3,000. Where the gross receipts are $50,000, the new schedule will raise the pay $1,000, and to $3,100. For offices where the receipts are $100,000, the new salary will be $3,600, though the present maximum is $3,700. Where the receipts are $450,000, the new salary will be $3,900, and the present maximum is $4,050. Where the receipts are between $500,000 and $600,000, the new salary will be $5,000. The present maximum ranges from $4,200 to $4,500. Under the new schedule the maximum salary, $6,000, will be paid where the receipts exceed $900,000. Under the present schedule the maximum salary will be the receipts are $640,000 would be $5,080, and the same where the receipts are $1,250,000, but where the receipts are $1,500,000, the salary would be $4,700. The reason for this inequality is that a part of the salary consists of a diminishing commission on the receipts, and two-tenths of 1 per cent of $1,000,000 is more than one-tenth of 1 per cent of $1,250,000. The new schedule of specific salaries obviates all these aberrations.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Attention has recently been drawn to the fact that the new civil service law is silent as to any distinction to be made between male and female applicants for places in the executive departments and the problem of reconciling this state of affairs with the present practice in most of the departments of giving male applicants for office the preference in appointments is now the subject of consideration by the civil service reform commissioners. The rules to be drawn up by the commissioners will determine, if any provision is made, what will be done upon the question, the commissioners being cognizant of the necessities of the public service and the opposition on the part of heads of departments to any large increase in the number of female clerks.

CONFESSING THEIR SINS.

Trouble Over a Catholic Innovation in a Protestant Episcopal Church.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 27.—There is serious trouble in Grace Episcopal church here. Some months ago the pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Hinkle, established a confession similar to those in the Catholic church and claimed it was according to the ritual of the church. The master has raised a tremendous row in the congregation, and there are now two opposing factions in the church. Those belonging to what is known as the zealous, zealous, energetic members of the church, to a certain extent favorable to elaborate ritualistic proceedings. The other side are opposed to an ornate ritual as represented by the pastor, and are said to be in the habit of drawing an invidious distinction between the present condition of the church and the preceding and more satisfactory period. The annual meeting of the officials of the church takes place to-morrow, and a great deal of interest is attached to the meeting. It is probable that an effort will be made to resign the pastor, Dr. Hinkle. One of the highest officials in the church in answer to a question as to whether an effort was to be made at the annual election to depose Dr. Hinkle, replied that to many of the congregation the pastor was distasteful, and that since the facts about his private confession had become the property of the public a number have left the church. Another prominent church official said: "Dr. Hinkle belongs to a secret monkish order that has its headquarters in England, and it is for that order that he received and accepted those high ritualistic ideas that border on Romanism. I tell you that English order is dangerous. I am credibly informed that one of their doctrines is that old cardinal doctrine of the Jesuits that the end justifies the means. When a man believes that and is ready to practice it, then I think he has approached very near the border of Roman Catholicism." It was learned to-day that the finances of the church have been in a very bad condition for some time, and that the management had been so bad that the election to-morrow would result in a thorough investigation of the manner in which the finances of the church had been managed. It may be significant in this connection, to state that the finances are controlled by the anti-Hinkle faction.

MRS. LANGTRY IN CLEVELAND.

Accompanied by Mr. Gebhardt She Sheds Lustre Upon the West.

CLEVELAND, March 27.—Frederick Gebhardt and the Lily reached this city to-day. The latter in the moonlight and Freddy in the afternoon. Both registered at the Kennard house. They took a promenade on Superior street and Euclid avenue this afternoon. At night Mr. Gebhardt escorted Mrs. Langtry to the opera house for rehearsal of Gilbert's "Pygmalion and Galatea," which is played here for the first time to-night. Mrs. Langtry had lots of fun and seemed to enjoy herself during the evening. Freddy bid himself, but turned up at 11 and took Mrs. Langtry home. In an interview Mrs. Langtry complained of her treatment by the American press, and eulogized Miss Jennie Chamberlain, the Cleveland beauty, now in the set that Mrs. Langtry has left. She said she was determined to see Garfield's grave. She likened the American journal to a hornet. Mrs. Langtry, but would talk "horse." She loves Eoe, but declined to say anything else. He said the newspaper men of America were blackguards, that he proposed to go where and do what he liked, and that he was not interested in Harry E. Abbey's contract with Mrs. Langtry and working up the business.

TENNESSEE LEGISLATION.

At the Freedom Given to Irish Agitators in the United States—The Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The British government has frequently made complaint of the open sympathy manifested by American citizens and a portion of the American press with the efforts of the Irish people to redress their grievances. The administration has never conceded the right of the British government to detain American citizens arrested on suspicion without giving them trial and an opportunity for release. On April 25, 1882, Secretary Frelinghuysen addressed a letter to Minister Lowell, in which he said: "The president is aware that Ireland is now in an exceptional condition. But even if all were true which is stated; if it is impossible to conduct a trial by a breaker of the peace with any hope of conviction, even with the clearest proof, if the witness who testifies against such an offender does it in his life in his hand; if it is impossible for owners of property to collect rents under any process of law; if those who are responsible for the administration of law in Ireland are seeking to do away with this unhappy condition—even if all this be true, it furnishes no sufficient reason why an American citizen should remain incarcerated without accusation, without chance of trial, without opportunity for release. The opinion of her majesty's government on the subject of imprisonment of the American suspect is well known. In a letter to Mr. West, the British minister, dated April 18, 1882, Lord Granville says: "It is impossible either for her majesty's government or for the government of the United States to be ignorant that the present disorders in Ireland have been, and are still to a great extent, fomented by Irish emigrants in the United States, and by subscriptions of money and publications hostile to British rule proceeding from that source. As you are aware, her majesty's government found it necessary last year to address a friendly representation on this subject to the government of the United States, and her majesty's government cannot doubt that the president and his ministers must be desirous of disengaging all such proceedings to the best of their power. Under such circumstances it is obvious that the efforts of her majesty's government and of the British parliament for the vindication of law and the restoration of order in Ireland would be liable to be frustrated if aliens in Ireland (whatever nationality they might claim) were in any respect treated as exempt from the operation of law which parliament has found it necessary to enact for that purpose, or from the extraordinary powers conferred upon the executive government of Ireland by those

WANDERING BANDS OF APACHES SPREADING MURDER.

A State of Terror in New Mexico, Arizona and Other Sections—General Crook's Hope that the Indians May be Put Under the Ground—The Crimes and Casualties of the Day, Etc., Etc.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Agent Wilcox, at the San Carlos agency, Arizona, telegraphs this morning to answer the charge of murder in the first degree for killing Mrs. Sarah Henrietta Dorris, wife of General George P. Davis and Russell Brown's grandmother, by strangulation on the night of January 28, 1882. The district attorney stated that the testimony taken before the grand jury would not sustain the charge of murder. He did not believe the young men intended to kill Mrs. Dorris. As the prisoners were willing to enter a plea of guilty of manslaughter in the first degree, he recommended that it be accepted and the punishment be assessed at ten years in the penitentiary.

The judge, surprised at this proposition, took the case under advisement until 3 o'clock.

At that hour the judge came into court, said he had read the evidence and it was either a case of murder in the first or manslaughter in the third degree, and he could not accept the plea of guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. The prisoners then proceeded to trial and the jury was empaneled. After the judge said that on the advice of the circuit attorney, and on further consideration of the law and evidence in the case, he would accept the plea of guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. The prisoners were then arraigned and pleaded guilty, and on the recommendation of the circuit attorney were sentenced to ten years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

The Female Clerks to Stand a Competitive Test—Well as the Males.

Washington, March 27.—Attention has recently been drawn to the fact that the new civil service law is silent as to any distinction to be made between male and female applicants for places in the executive departments and the problem of reconciling this state of affairs with the present practice in most of the departments of giving male applicants for office the preference in appointments is now the subject of consideration by the civil service reform commissioners. He came from Atlanta this morning on the passenger train, and while on the way attempted three times to take his life by jumping off the train and trying to get down between the couplings, but was prevented each time by the conductor. He seemed to be preparing to take a full bottle of whisky. This evening about 3 o'clock he went into Dr. Lee's drugstore, bought half an ounce of morphine and walked out. Our mayor, seeing him go into the drugstore, suspicious something and asked the doctor if he had sold him any poison, and if he had, he had better look after him as he would kill himself. The doctor and ten or twelve others tracked him about a quarter of a mile from town. Just before they got to a swamp they found a wrapper that he had torn from the bottle and going a mile further they found him lying in the swamp by a branch, with his overcoat under his head for a pillow and the empty bottle beside him.

The committee inquired how much money the citizens of Macon raised toward defraying the expense of the fair. The amount collected was a trifly over $1,000, whereupon Colonel Hardeman offered to make a full-fledged resolution which was immediately passed: "Resolved, That it is the desire of this committee that we hold a state fair about the first of November; that after a practical experience of years we are familiar with the great expense attending the holding of fairs, and in the premiums for the large variety of exhibits necessary to make the fair a success, the loss of advertising and other incidental expenses, and we unanimously agree to hold the fair in the event of the aid of two thousand dollars being offered and guaranteed, by the citizens of Macon, to assist in making the fair a grand success for the benefit of the city of Macon."

Resolved further, that in the event the said sum is secured by the 17th of April, the president shall immediately convene the committee to prepare and arrange the details for holding the fair."

SUCCESS IN DENTAL SURGERY.

George W. Ford, a son of the well known Macon Dentist, W. W. Ford, who graduated recently at the commencement of the Baltimore college of dental surgery, was presented with a beautiful set of Varney Sluggers, a nice morocco case, the prize for the greatest excellence in artistic plastic work, articulated full set of teeth on celluloid base, with an essay on the conservative treatment of exposed pulps and devitalized teeth. He was also presented with the first prize, a handsome gold medal, for the best in the class in the final examinations of all branches taught in the college.

Dr. Thomas S. Latimer, professor of physiology, in the Baltimore dental college, professor of physiology and diseases of children in the college of physicians and surgeons of Baltimore, publicly said that George's examination papers were the best that had been rendered in his department. On the 15th inst., he matriculated in the college of physicians and surgeons. He will take the spring course lectures. Next winter he will take the regular course, and graduate an M. D. and an A. M. last week in the old Baltimore Dental college unanimously elected him one of the demonstrators of the college for the next session.

A COMPLEMENT TO LESTER.

Special to The Constitution.

SAVANNAH, March 27.—Meyer Lester attended the ball of the Young Men's Christian Association last night.

During the evening, he was presented by the president, Mr. M. J. Dooner, in behalf of the association, with an elegant gold-headed cane inscribed "HON. R. E. Lester, from the Y. M. T. A. Club, March 26, 1883."

BLOCKADING THE SIDEWALKS.

The ordinance in reference to obstructing the sidewalks is to be rigidly enforced. Thirty odd merchants and dealers who have been blockading the fronts of their stores with dry goods boxes, etc., were summoned before the mayor's morning and notified that if the ordinance was violated again the full penalty would be enforced.

HOSE ACCIDENTS.

A fine horse and carriage of Charles Kolsbom & Bro., got loose in the stall this morning and pranced around the stable, slipped and falling heavily on a short post and striking against his abdomen was killed instantly. He was valued at three hundred dollars. A horse belonging to Epstein & Bergson, was frightened and broke from the hitching post, ran off, came in contact with four bales of hay, which was cleared beautifully in a leap, which was followed by a jump over the shafts, dashing at his heels. W. S. Baker, a well-known butcher, while delivering meat from a wagon, met with an accident. The horse got frightened, ran away, overturning the wagon, pitching Baker out, who was injured badly in the knee.

ANOTHER NATIONAL BANK.

It is now certain that another national bank will be established in Rome within the next ninety days. The stockholders will be from among our best merchants and cotton men.

ACCIDENT AT THE CONVICT CAMP.

Special to The Constitution.

JASPER, March 26.—A sad accident occurred at Camp No. 12, Macon and North Georgia railroad, last Saturday morning. Allen Gaddan, of Cherokee county, N. C., who was bossing the saw mill squad, was killed and terribly mangled and his brains scattered by the saw. An inquest was held by a notary public, in the absence of a coroner. The verdict of the jury was that the deceased came to his death by his own carelessness. He was kicking the sawdust from the saw and was caught by the saw. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his loss. His county commissioners at home and a good citizen. The inquest, at their own expense, prepared him for burial and sent him to North Carolina for burial.

WHAT AND OATS.

The prospect for wheat, oats and fruit is gloomy. No signs of spring except a few flowers, peach and plum blossoms. Late frosts and heavy coats are in great demand.

MONTGOMERY, Alabama.

THE RECENT BANK FAILURE.

Special to The Constitution.

MONTGOMERY, March 27.—A part of the recent loss sustained by the Merchants and Planters national bank, one of the directors, Colonel Thomas B. Jordan, had specially deposited with said bank for safe keeping five hundred dollars in six per cent bonds of five hundred dollars each. Assistant Cashier Ray, who was also missing, but traced to A. R. McCurdy, a well known faro dealer, where they were either lost in the game or left as collateral, who was called upon to surrender them and complied, to day arrived by express from New Orleans.

COURT IN SESSION.

The United States district court for the northern division of Alabama opens next Monday at Huntsville, Judge Bruce presiding.

POSTOFFICE ROBBERY.

The recent postoffice robbery at Birmingham and the notorious moonshiners, Bennetts, will be tried. John Burke's shooting case went to the jury late to-night after exhaustive and able arguments on both sides. It is thought it will be either a verdict against him or a mistrial.

THE SUPREME COURT.

DECISIONS RENDERED TUESDAY,
MARCH 27TH.

James Jackson, Chief Justice; Martin J. Crawford and General Hall, Associate Justices—Reported for The Constitution by J. H. Lumpkin, Supreme Court Reporter.

Freyer vs. Cole & Co. Complaint, from Early.
Practice in superior court. Verdict. Judgment.
Constitutional law.

Jackson C. J.—Under § 457, of the Code, in a suit on an open account, where there has been personal service and the case is in default, the plaintiff may take a verdict as if each of the items were proved by testimony.

(a) Under the act of 1861 in such cases the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict. Under the constitution of 1868 the court rendered judgment by default in such cases, and the word "default" was inserted in the code of 1863 in order to make it conform to the constitution. Under the constitution of 1877 verdicts are rendered in such cases, and it should appear so in the code.

2. Where exception is taken to a long extract from the charge of the court, a portion of which is clearly correct, it should be specified what portion is not correct, or why the giving of it as a whole was erroneous.

3. The charge might have been more particular in separately pointing out the different phases of the case, as disclosed by possible views of the evidence, and in applying the law separately to each, to what the jury arising out of previous declarations alleged to have been made by him adversely to him, especially in connection with affidavits of witnesses to the good character, there was no error in refusing a new trial on that ground.

4. There was no affidavit of the defendant showing that they were ignorant of the disqualification of the judge, founded on good reason, in order to save his life or prevent a felony on his person; and also, either that the deceased was
the assailant or that the slayer had really and
in good faith endeavored to decline any further struggle before the mortal blow was strucken.

5. In all cases of self-defense, whether it be of life or limb or of any threatened felony on the person of the accused, the law of justification and excuse must be applied, and it must be made to appear that it was absolutely necessary to kill the deceased in the opinion of the slayer, founded on good reason, in order to save his life or prevent a felony on his person; and also, either that the deceased was
the assailant or that the slayer had really and
in good faith endeavored to decline any further struggle before the mortal blow was strucken.

sense of the act of 1861, and a verdict cannot

items were proved by testimony.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 28, 1883.

INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic states, fair weather, winds mostly northerly, station or higher temperature and pressure.

ATLANTA is now a port. The ships will have to weigh anchor off Savannah as usual, but the Central railroad will very kindly act as over-land carrier.

THE commissioners appointed by Governor Boynton to represent Georgia at the Louisville exposition will do honor to the physical manhood of the state, as well as serve to cement the bonds which bind us to the state of Daniel Boone.

THE state of New York is well supplied with commercial swimmers. She has 12,524 notaries public, not to mention those appointed for the convenience of banks; or a legion of commissioners of deeds. There are certainly good conveniences for swearing in the populous state.

COMMISSIONER HENDERSON is kind enough to describe the quality of yam which best appeals to the palate north and south. It seems that the south prefers it a little wet, while the calculating northerner wants it dry so, in order that he may loose none of it by the escaping moisture.

THE past twelve months has been an unfortunate one for men who had distributed postmasterships among their fellow men; for in that time no less than four have died. Mr. Maynard, of Tennessee, died last April; Mr. Denison, of Ohio, last October; Mr. Jewell, of Connecticut, last December, and now Mr. Howe.

The republicans of Rhode Island have succeeded in putting an alleged straight-out democratic ticket in the field. Charles R. Cutler is their candidate for governor. The action of the handful of straightouts has very properly been censured by the democratic state central committee, for its only effect will consist in promoting the defeat of the democrats who are running on the Sprague ticket.

ROM is agitated over free bridges and the sale of whisky. The city council at first made a compromise by raising the license to a prohibitory figure, but on petition of the liquor interest repealed the ordinance. Now the temperance people ask a direct vote on the question of wet or dry. It is safe to say that in the excitement of this agitation the state election will be forgotten.

THE dead postmaster-general was a stalwart of the stalwarts—one of a lot of politicians now dying out or being scattered. Few of this lot remain in office, and it will soon be a reflection to have been a stalwart at all. The great stalwarts in private life are said to be in a snarl, and altogether the combination may be said to be hopelessly broken, although one of its members is president. In office he is not very much of a stalwart, however, and no one need be surprised if he puts a half-breed in the vacant place. Governor Foster is spoken of, and it is possible that Mr. Wm. E. Chandler will be transferred to a department that has an unusual amount of patronage.

ALL-COTTON CREDITS.

Mr. W. R. Henry has written a pamphlet on the condition of the farmers of North Carolina. It appears from the figures he gives that this class is in a worse fix than the same class in Georgia. In other words, the farmers of North Carolina are to-day in as deplorable a condition as the farmers of Georgia were five years ago. They are practically in a condition of slavery which is as bad, if indeed, it is not worse, than the real slavery that held the negroes in bondage. The negroes were provided with shelter, with clothes and with rations, and they had no responsibilities, but the farmers who plant all cotton in response to the demands of the commission merchant who holds a mortgage on his lands, his stock and his crop is doubly a slave. Every season brings an accumulation of the miseries that accompany poverty.

We gather from Mr. Henry's pamphlet that eighty-six thousand tons of commercial fertilizers were sold in North Carolina, principally for the cultivation of cotton. These fertilizers cost the farmers an average of $45 a ton, amounting to the sum of three million eight hundred and seventy thousand dollars. Four hundred thousand bales of cotton were produced, which, at an average of $40 a bale, amounted to sixteen million dollars. The fertilizers, therefore, cost nearly one-fourth the proceeds of the entire cotton crop. Mr. Henry subtracts the $3,870,000 paid for guano from the $16,000,000 received from the cotton crop. This leaves $12,130,000, which is equally divided among the 1,500,000 people of North Carolina who, a few years ago, did not possess a foot of land. They now own thousand of acres obtained by foreclosing on all cotton farmers. The men who are now in debt to the commission merchants are compelled to plant cotton in order to meet the expectations and desires of those who credit them.

"Why?" asks Mr. Henry. "Because it is essential to the continued accumulation of wealth by these commission merchants that the tenant should plant cotton and not corn, should buy meat from them instead of raising it, should believe they are working for themselves, while, in fact, they are working for the commission merchant." The pamphlet then goes on to enlarge upon this subject, making some very truthful remarks, but the impression is left that the cause of the condition of the farmers of North Carolina is in some way due to the commission merchants.

The truth of the matter is, nobody on earth is to blame but the farmer himself. With starvation staring him in the face he started out to make a living by violating every principle of common sense and economy. The high price of cotton after the war stimulated the spirit of speculation that exists among human beings everywhere, and all the suffering and degradation and disaster since have not been sufficient to allay it. The average farmer of North Carolina digs, and starves, and pinches himself in the hope that some contingency will carry the price of cotton to twenty or thirty cents, and he continues to plant it, not in the hope that he may suddenly grow rich, than in the hope that he may be enabled to meet his obligations.

Nobody is responsible for the condition of the farmer but the farmer himself. The usurious interest charged by the commission merchant on accommodations is the natural and direct result of the risk which accompanies the extension of credit to men who are too insensible to their own welfare to raise their own supplies.

THE CONSTITUTION took occasion last fall to congratulate the farmers of Georgia on the fact, which was then apparent, that they had managed to weather the worst of their difficulties; but it is to be feared that we shall not be able to extend similar congratulations next fall. There is a tendency all over the south (to which we have already called attention) to remove the all-cotton craze. Reports from all sections show that the farmers neglected the small grain crops, and that they are preparing to increase the acreage devoted to cotton.

The only stimulant to this course must be in the full corn-cobs, for there is nothing in prospective prices or in the condition of the markets to warrant it. Full corn-cobs will not last always, and unless the native common sense of the farmer comes to his rescue, the next reckoning day will find him floundering in the neighborhood of his old misery. Progress that halts is not progress, and no farmer in Georgia, no matter how humble his holding, or how extensive, cannot fail to succeed unless he conforms to the conditions of success and makes his business self-sustaining.

BIDING FOR SOUTHERN TRADE.

The people of Cincinnati built a railroad to Chattanooga. This road cost a great deal of money; but when it was completed the people who had been heavily taxed to pay interest on the cost of construction, which the road itself could not meet, rejoiced; because they would hereafter not only have access to the very heart of the south, but they would hereafter enjoy and profit by the shortest and best line extending from the Ohio river towards the Gulf. Neither St. Louis or Louisville or any other city would be well served, and the expectation of a double or if not a quadrupled trade were quickly entertained. But, alas, these plans have come to grief, and the superior advantages have become very misty. To save money Cincinnati's road was leased to a foreign corporation controlled in countries across the water that know very little about Cincinnati and probably do not care to increase their present stock of knowledge relative to that city. As soon as the foreign company had obtained full possession of the property and had looked over the ground, it proceeded to enter into a traffic contract with the Louisville and Nashville company, as though Louisville becomes as much an Ohio-river terminus of Cincinnati's own road as Cincinnati itself. "Hereafter," says the Cincinnati Enquirer dolefully, "the Southern will certainly use every endeavor to obtain as much freight and passenger patronage from the Falls City as possible. The latter is, by the new route, considerably nearer Chattanooga than Cincinnati, and when the Southern begins running direct trains from Louisville it will gain whatever advantage there may be in such contiguity.

This case is after all another instance of the course of trade, which never did run free of rivalry and conflicting interests. Trade centers should not hope to secure trade that they are not entitled to. If Cincinnati is entitled to a large share of the southern trade, she will get it, not because she owns a railroad, but because all things considered she can outbid other towns. In other words, she is put on her mettle so far as the south is concerned; she has confessedly a fair and square chance, and no town should expect more.

CINCINNATI is afraid the Louisville and Nashville will be put under a tent and copyrighted. The Secretary Folger resigas, there will be an opening for Dorsev. The truth is there is not more than twelve honest republicans than Dorsev, and the name of the commission merchant is in some way due to the commission merchants.

THE truth of the matter is, nobody on earth is to blame but the farmer himself. With starvation staring him in the face he started out to make a living by violating every principle of common sense and economy.

The high price of cotton after the war stimulated the spirit of speculation that exists among human beings everywhere, and all the suffering and degradation and disaster since have not been sufficient to allay it.

The pamphlet then goes on to enlarge upon this subject, making some very truthful remarks, but the impression is left that the cause of the condition of the farmers of North Carolina is in some way due to the commission merchants.

PROBABLY the largest kite in the world was recently made near Rochester, New York. The frame was of lumber two inches wide by half an inch in thickness, and was covered with manila paper. The surface contained nearly 250 square feet. The string by which the kite was flown was three thousand feet long, 5,800 feet in diameter. It shot into the air like a balloon, and after floating a mile high for two hours was only brought down by means of a pulley and team.

AT 1 o'clock the other morning some consternation was created in the house of commons by the discovery of a stranger in the gallery with his hat on. When called to order, the stranger explained that he saw gentlemen down there who had been here, and he thought the committee as a whole would be general.

THE STAR ROUTE SCHEME

PRICE MAKES AFFIDAVIT AS TO THE ORIGIN OF THE RING.

Indictments Found Against Senator Kellogg and General Brady—How a Hard-Hearted Officer's Favor was Gained by a Valuable Envelope A Strange Story Related, Etc., Etc.

The holding of two Governor Boynton and the Press on the Politics, Etc.

Washington, March 27.—The grand jury to-day returned indictments against Thomas J. Brady for corrupt official action in connection with two of Price's mail routes, one against William Pitt Kellogg for unlawfully receiving money from Price, in consideration of corruptly influencing the action of Brady in regard to his mail routes, and one against Thomas J. Brady and William Pitt Kellogg for conspiracy in connection with these same cases.

The following is an abstract obtained from what is believed to be a trustworthy source, of the affidavit of Mail Contractor James B. Price, which is now in the possession of counsel for the government in the star route cases. The affidavit deposes in substance as follows: In 1878, being the lowest bidder, affiant was awarded the contract for carrying the mails on the route (among others) from Corpus Christi to San Antonio, Texas. In 1879, being desirous of having the number of trips increased, and the times expedited on said route, to the end that his annual pay might be increased and the route thereby rendered profitable, affiant caused to be circulated petitions for the signatures of citizens living in the line of road, requesting that the postmaster grant and reduce the number of trips and reduce the running time. These petitions having been numerous, signed by influential citizens, and officials were handed by affiant to a friend in Washington for presentation to the post-office department for its action. This effort met with no success. Affiant then applied in person to Senator William Pitt Kellogg, whom he had known for many years, saying to him, "If you succeed in increasing my pay on this route, and that of the one from Shreveport to New Orleans, I will give you twenty thousand dollars."

THE PLOT EXTENDING.

Kelllogg said he would see the second assistant postmaster, General Brady, and learn of him what could be done. Meantime affiant drew fine postal drafts of $3,000 each for the hereinbefore named quarters on the route from Corpus Christi to San Antonio. These drafts were drawn on the 16th of July, 1879, and before the order was issued granting affiant the increase of pay on the route. A short while afterwards senator Kellogg, replying to him, said the matter was all right, he (affiant) handed to said Kellogg fifteen thousand dollars of postal drafts drawn against his (affiant's) account for the following named quarters: Ending March 31, 1880; June 30, 1880; September 30, 1880; December 31, 1880; and March 31, 1881. In addition to the above, affiant gave said Kellogg his promissory note for $5,000, payable in four months, with collateral attached thereto, to secure payment of same. This collateral consisted of Shakespeare mining stock and bonds drawn by Mail Contractor Hugh White and issued by Mail Contractor Monroe, Salisbury. All of this paper was paid at maturity. Senator Kellogg told affiant that the note and drafts had been given to John A. Walsh, banker, in Washington, for collection.

O'Conor speaks in Leads.

LONDON, March 27.—Thomas Power O'Conor member of parliament from Galway, delivered an address at Leeds last night. He had previously been challenged by the Leeds Mercury to say whether he was a member of the land league, and to say whether he was willing to have the league account audited. O'Conor however, failed to notice the question in his speech.

time before recess was consumed by counsel in disputing upon technical points in regard to the Dorsey checks and check books. Dorsey, whenever he was allowed to proceed, contradicted Reindell's testimony in every particular. The entire efforts of the witness and his counsel were directed to breaking down Reindell. Witness does not bring his testimony to Brady for any purpose at any time. He also denied ever having written to Dorsey inviting him to assume an interest in the business. Referring to Reindell's statement that his office had been broken open while he was in jail, and papers abstracted, Dorsey said after Reindell was released from jail he (Dorsey) accompanied him to his office, where Reindell packed up a bundle of papers, took them to witness' house, where they still remain unopened. Witness said he never had a key to Reindell's office, and never was in that office while Reindell was in jail. While still on the stand court adjourned.

THE CHINESE IN WAYNESBORO.

Steps Taken to Contact the Slave. Strength at the Instigation of the Chinese Minister.

From the Waynesboro, Ga., Citizen.

Upon investigation we find that no bodily harm was intended or done the celestials. They were badly frightened, but not a shred or can of their handful of goods were touched or injured, and the whole affair amounts to a repetition of the story of the three black crows. Major Wilkins and several others of the gentlemen against whom the heathens have brought suits have employed able counsel to defend them and to make a case for making false, unfounded and malicious charges against them. We know that several of the parties against whom the Chinese have made serious charges are as innocent as their minister in Washington.

Loo Chong and party will learn that it is not a "rosy road to travel" when they bring suits for large amounts against good citizens simply for the purpose of forcing a compromise. But as the matter will undergo judicial investigation we forbear making any further comment, but ask that the public at large will wait and hear the defense of our people, but that they want good citizens French, German, Irish, English, or any nation of the Caucasian race, who bring with them capital, talent, mechanical skill, or muscle, and who add something to the wealth of the country. But neither Indians or Chinese.

The west has already been sufficiently cursed by both of these heathen races, and we have yet to learn of a single community which has ever in any way been benefited by Chinese emigration—from every place where these heathens find a lodgment the people writh and groan under the affliction.

Mr. Fanning's sale of a large estate attended

Mr. Fanning's sale of water colors and paintings at the library hall last night. The selections placed on sale were numerous and in all instances very beautiful. Bidding was spirited and bids were disposed of. Mr. Fanning announced that notwithstanding it was his desire to leave the city tomorrow, so great is the number of pictures offered that he would not mind that he remain in the city a day or so longer and the sales would be kept up.

A DISTINGUISHED PLEASURE PARTY.—Yesterday a special car passed through the city on the East and West lines, and was received, because a pleasure party of distinguished people. The party was composed of Mr. E. A. Rollins, president of the Central bank of Philadelphia, and Miss Mary Rollins and Mr. and Mrs. Rollins of Portland, Mr. Walter Scott, son ex-Senator Scott, of Pennsylvania, and Master Loyd Chandler, a very bright young man, son of the late Senator. The party was in charge of Conductor William Hayes, of the Shenandoah Valley road, and will visit Florida and return home in a week, or ten days, going through South America.

A COULD REMEDY.—The above gentleman, and his charming little wife, with his small but excellent company of specialty artists, continue to draw fine houses at Decatur's opera house.

The performance Monday evening was a full house.

The following afternoon was attended perhaps, by the largest number that has assembled there this season. In fact the crowd that could not gain admission was very large.

Miss Hayes is the star of the company, dresses beautiful and in good taste, is dignified, amiable, intelligent and wears numerous and elegant diamonds.

Two and a half hours were given to the play, and very low is the price of admission, and so attractive the entertainment that it is reasonable to suppose that large audiences will be present the remainder of the season.

The Preparation for the Concert by the Young Men's Christian Association.

A grand rehearsal, enthusiastically remarked

the president of the Young Men's Christian Association, as he entered THE CONSTITUTION's sanctum last night. "We are going to give the people of Atlanta the best concert of the winter, with perhaps one exception, and it will be with the assistance of a grand chorus of sixty of Atlanta's best trained voices, and the result will be a success."

The concert will be given at the same time as the theatre and the choral attractions. The little theatre and the choral attractions. The little lady is the star of the company, dresses beautiful and in good taste, is dignified, amiable, intelligent and wears numerous and elegant diamonds.

Two and a half hours were given to the play, and very low is the price of admission, and so attractive the entertainment that it is reasonable to suppose that large audiences will be present the remainder of the season.

THE COMING CONCERT.

The Preparation for the Concert by the Young Men's Christian Association.

A grand rehearsal, enthusiastically remarked

the president of the Young Men's Christian Association, as he entered THE CONSTITUTION's sanctum last night. "We are going to give the people of Atlanta the best concert of the winter, with perhaps one exception, and it will be with the assistance of a grand chorus of sixty of Atlanta's best trained voices, and the result will be a success."

The concert will be given at the same time as the

Heads Acme Opera Company.

The Heads Acme opera company will appear at DeGivie's opera house on Thursday evening, April 5th, presenting Gounod's grand masterpiece, "Faust." Gounod's magnificent work has not been presented here in several years. The event will be unique in the history of the city. Manager Head has made up his company of the very best available talent and has met with remarkable success wherever he has appeared. Among the leading people are Miss Elizabeth C. Clegg, Miss Emma Elsler, Miss Rose Leighton, Miss Grace Hiltz, Miss Andie Ellsler, and Misses Chapman, Morris, Mark Smith, Geo. W. Peacock, J. H. Jones, Thomas Christie, D. A. Flint, and that prince of all operatic actors, Henry C. Peacock, accompanied with the finest orchestra on the continent, will present the "Faust" of the world. The chorus of the company is spoken of as a large and excellently drilled body, capable of doing very effective work.

The Fancy Fair.

The fair of S. S. Peter & Paul's church was largely attended last night. The various tables were liberally patronized, while the dining hall did a splendid business. The shooting gallery also did well, many young ladies trying their skill. Dancing was the main feature of the evening and everyone had a good time. Arrangements for the pleasant pastime have been perfected and will be night. Arrangements have been put up in the hall and ready for use. This new feature will doubtless be much enjoyed and add considerably to the financial receipts. The receipts taken in last night amounted to a sum and so far the managers have every reason to believe the fair will be successful.

A Family Disturbance.

James Fields and his half brother had a misunderstanding last night and a bloody fight ensued. Fields wife grabbed an ax which was near at hand and struck him on the head, cutting an ugly gash. After a few rounds Fields got the ax and dealt his wife a severe blow on the head, nearly splitting it open. The ax was laid aside and Fields wife had to be sent to the hospital to be treated for her injuries. The records taken in last night amounted to a sum and so far the managers have every reason to believe the fair will be successful.

There is an exhibition in the executive office a very fine steel engraving of Governor Stephens, the work of Marshall, the famous engraver of New York. It is one of the best productions and was made from a photograph furnished by Governor Stephens. The sale of the picture in Georgia will be under the supervision of Colonel J. W. Avery.

Heads Elected.
